What Others Are Saying About the Kenyan Draft Constitution

"The document is perfect and deserves support by the leadership. I hope the people will support the referendum."

-Michael Ranneberger, U.S. Ambassador to Kenya

The Standard

November 18, 2009

"This is a moment of truth in Kenya's reform process. Kenyans have been looking for a new constitution for many years now and we think the Committee of Experts on the constitution has done an extremely good job."

-Rob Macaire, British High Commissioner to Kenya

The Standard

November 18, 2009

"The draft constitution has positive elements that would reduce opportunities of corruption and abuse of power that exist today. For example, the draft constitution subjects presidential powers to account to Parliament and the judiciary."

-Job Ogonda, Director of Transparency International Kenya

Capital FM

November 18, 2009

"The new constitution will be the base and foundation for the kind of government Kenyans and the negotiators had in mind."

-John Kufor, former President of Ghana

Kenyan Broadcasting Company

November 19, 2009

"There will be a contestation of ideas, but not a tug of war. The absolute positions that we saw the last time (in 2005), I don't think we shall see them."

-Duncan Okello, Director of the Society of International Development

Associated Press

-Joyce Majiwa, former Chairperson of the Federation of Women Lawyers

AllAfrica

November 22, 2009

"Even a casual glance at the draft indicates that it contains some good, even excellent, ideas, as well as some revolutionary changes encompassing an entirely new governance component. Our hope is that politicians and professionals will get into the document with open minds, and offer positive recommendations on how the draft can be improved for the benefit of all Kenyans. One of the things that we must keep emphasizing is that this document is not about politicians; nor is it about their political parties. It is about posterity."

-Daily Nation editorial

November 18, 2009

"The Draft is neither radical nor moderate. It has attempted to create a nation where accountability and rule of law reigns supreme. Overall, we must have a document that gives us a nation where people believe in law and order, private enterprise and the sanctity of contract."

Formation of the US-Egyptian Parliamentary Alliance

Background:

A growing number of members of Congress have had the opportunity to become more familiar with the many ways in which Egypt is an essential ally, not only in the Middle East, but throughout the world.

At the same time, members of the Egyptian Parliament are likewise becoming more interested in increasing cooperation and achieving a substantive exchange with their US counterparts on issues of mutual interest and concern.

This concept paper seeks to incorporate a number of ideas expressed by parliamentarians and their staffs in both countries on how the creation of an ongoing dialogue between the two bodies could become a reality.

Organizational Framework:

There are a number of organizations through which parliamentarians from different countries work together. For the US Congress, perhaps the most notable examples are with Mexico, Canada and Japan.

These partnerships are government-funded. They are well-staffed and a great deal of work appears to go into preparing exchanges between the parliamentarians and reporting on the outcomes of those conversations and deliberations.

What is contemplated here -- for the US and Egyptian parliamentary bodies -- is something far less formal and costly.

The alliance will begin with two meetings a year, one in each country. Members of each parliamentary body who commit to joining this alliance essentially commit to those two meetings. There will be other opportunities throughout the year to exchange views, via email and phone conversations and even on trips arranged by the parliamentarians themselves. But the basic commitment is for those two meetings.

Members and Issues Purview:

The initial goal is to involve members from both bodies who (1) have gained some seniority, experience and prominence, and (2) are working in issue areas of mutual concern to their counterpart(s) in the other body.

On the US side, the goal is to have as founding members those who preferably chair full or subcommittees.

The Moffett Group provides representation to the Government of the Arab Republic of Egypt. More information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.

2010 JAN 22 PM 4: 24
CRM/ISS/REGISTRATION UNIT

In addition to the obvious jurisdictions -- Foreign Affairs or Appropriations for Foreign Operations -- the goal is to recruit, from both bodies, members whose focus is on defense, homeland security, agriculture, energy and climate-related committees.

Both US and Egyptian parliamentarians have also expressed an interest in involving private sector priorities from their constituencies in an effort to explore opportunities for expanding trade and investment in both countries.

Budget and Funding:

Ideally, foundations or other non-profit organizations, which meet guidelines written by House Ethics Committee, will appropriate funds for travel expenses.

Conversations are ongoing with such organizations and it is expected that several potential funders will be identified soon.

Member's Office Header

Representative [NAME] applauds the Republic of Kenya on release of a new draft constitution:

“I congratulate President Mwai Kibaki and Prime Minister Raila Odinga for making significant progress towards a more transparent democracy through the drafting of this new constitution. The new draft aims to unite and strengthen the Kenyan government. It proposes limiting executive power through a decentralized government, the establishment of local and county governments and a more transparent electoral process.

Coming off the heels of the government's meeting with Luis Moreno-Ocampo, chief prosecutor of the International Criminal Court (ICC), this development is yet another indicator that Kenya is willing to take the necessary actions to put the country back on track. I remain optimistic that the Kenyan government is sincere in its pledge to fully cooperate with the ICC in bringing the perpetrators of crimes against humanity to justice.

I hope my colleagues in Congress and the Obama Administration join me in commending the Kenyan government and its people for achieving these important milestones.”

Representative [NAME] applauds the Republic of Kenya on release of a new draft constitution:

"I congratulate President Mwai Kibaki and Prime Minister Raila Odinga for making significant progress towards a more transparent democracy through the drafting of this new constitution. The new draft aims to unite and strengthen the Kenyan government. It proposes limiting executive power through a decentralized government, the establishment of local and county governments and a more transparent electoral process.

Coming off the heels of the government's meeting with Luis Moreno-Ocampo, chief prosecutor of the International Criminal Court (ICC), this development is yet another indicator that Kenya is willing to take the necessary actions to put the country back on track. I remain optimistic that the Kenyan government is sincere in its pledge to fully cooperate with the ICC in bringing the perpetrators of crimes against humanity to justice.

I hope my colleagues in Congress and the Obama Administration join me in commending the Kenyan government and its people for achieving these important milestones."
